

Acknowledgments

The effort to convene the Sixth California Islands Symposium required the talents and commitment of many people. Most importantly we would like to thank the very dedicated members of the organizing committee; Tim Coonan, Sarah Fangman, Kate Faulkner, Laura Francis, Mike Glassow, Ann Huston, Lyndal Laughrin, and Mark Zacharias. This group met monthly for almost a year, volunteering their time on top of already hectic schedules to assure that the conference was as inclusive and informative regarding the resources of the California Islands as we could make it.

Additional assistance and support was provided by Paul Collins, Gary Davis, Bill Faulkner, Clare Fritzsche, Brad Keitt, Yvonne Menard, Yvonne Morales, Carol Peterson, Caroline Westberg and D.J. Wieman. Russell Galipeau and Chris Mobley greatly supported the conference with resources and staff from Channel Islands National Park and Channel Islands National Marine Sanctuary. We thank James Estes for being our Keynote Speaker and for many thought-provoking discussions throughout the meeting.

Financial support for the conference was provided by The Santa Cruz Island Foundation, the Nature Conservancy, Western National Parks Association, Channel Islands Aviation, Island Packers, the Channel Islands National Marine Sanctuary Foundation, and the Gold Coast Innovation Center, and we thank all of these groups for their assistance.

The Mediterranean Coast Learning Center of the National Park Service awarded a grant to produce these Proceedings, and for that we are extremely grateful. This infusion of support early in the planning schedule assured that the Proceedings would be published and that all participants would get a copy. It also allowed us to make hard-copy editions of the Proceedings available for free to libraries and at a greatly reduced cost to other parties.

For the publication effort, the editors profusely thank Greg Schmidt, Christine Steele, Mike Glassow, and especially Laura Quattrini. Christine and Laura each took on this job knowing very little about what would be involved, but proceeded with enthusiasm, ideas, and most importantly patience with the editors. They provided direction, focus, and persistence, and we literally could not have done this without them. Mike provided sound judgment and a professional perspective and was always a pleasure to work with. Finally CS thanks Tim Coonan for consistent help and support throughout the project.

Catherin A. Schwemm
David K. Garcelon
February 2005

'It is sometimes good that we can not see into the future, for if we could we would be content to avoid that which would cause struggle, regardless of the outcome.' - Unknown